

Mathematical aspects of subwavelength physics

Habib Ammari
ETH Zürich

Abstract

The ability to manipulate and control waves at scales much smaller than their wavelengths is revolutionizing nanotechnology. The speaker will present a mathematical and numerical framework for this emerging field of physics and elucidate its duality with condensed matter theory.